7 Sirfire Ancestors Of India

“Sab Bhagwaan ki marzi hai...”

“Bhagwaan khud ayenge humein bachaane...”

“Jo kismat mein likha hai vahi hona hai...”

“Sab karmo ka khel hai...”

“Bass apne pooja paatth pe dhyaan do...”

Such beliefs of common people were being used by Britishers to exploit & rule the people of our country.

It was not about the fight against Britishers, first it was a war against the beliefs which were making us more coward, selfish, lazy & irresponsible.

It is a story of an Indian who challenged the passive acceptance of fate, withdrawal from worldly affairs & separation of spirituality from action.

It is about the man who transformed India's fight for independence from a political struggle to a spiritual awakening.

He gave people the higher purpose that freedom is their divine right.

It was this man who made we Indians realise that Bhagwad Gita is not about escapism, but about engaging in right battles, in fighting for justice, in defending the honor of one's nation.

He noticed religious festivals as an opportunity to unite the people of our country, who were not getting any chance or daring to unite otherwise; he started the grand celebrations of Ganesha Chaturthi which further enhanced the spirit of nationalism in common people.

So whenever you see someone thinking that religious texts are about being passive,
Don't Forget To Salute:

The man who translated Bhagwad Gita with karmayoga in center - "Gita Rahasya"

The man who said "Swaraj Is My Birthright, And I Shall Have It"

The man who inspired many freedom fighters like Mahatma Gandhi & Subhash Chandra Bose

The man who awakened the spirit & courage in we Indians
